Not Present: 1 - Commissioner Gasper

APPROVAL OF THE MINUTES

PAC 2024-020 Approval of the Minutes

After reviewing the May minutes and the revised minutes from April, an additional change was suggested to remove the specific name of the organization that was referenced in both, as the organization may have left Castle Rock for compounding reasons and not solely the reason named. Members directed staff to correct both the April and May minutes to remove the specificity for accuracy.

AGENDA ITEMS

PAC 2024-021 Adirondack Chair Art Selection

Members reviewed and discussed the designs submitted to the call for giant Adirondack chair art. Lynn Hurley's, "Castle Rock Bear," submission was selected as the finalist. Members discussed the need to add some type of homage to Castle Rock such as a hashtag or reference to Castle Rock below the seat or text in the artwork somewhere. Members directed staff to work the artist and chair company to add a reference to Castle Rock in the design. Chair Jen Perry suggested hosting some type of announcement at an event at Festival Park this summer.

PAC 2024-022 Staff Updates

Staff presented the following updates:

- Staff Liaison Maia Yates and Chair Jen Perry presented an overview of art and cultural offerings in Castle Rock to the 2024 Leadership Douglas County class. They showcased why arts and culture adds value to communities and how Castle Rock is served through local arts organizations and events, public art initiatives and programming.
- Art Encounters sculptures for 2024-2025 had been installed, and Reven Swanson's sculpture that was purchased from the program (Farmer's Moon II), has also been moved to its new home along the East Plum Creek Trail.
- The call for artwork for the Tiny Art Quest program was live and scheduled to close July 1. To date, only three submissions were received. Staff had reached out to the Communications Division to get additional social media outreach posted. Staff also planned to reconnect with Natalie Martin from KidzArt and Mindy Fortin who organizes the Town's summer camps, to continue to share the opportunity and distribute fliers. Submissions would be juried at the July meeting.
- The commission had expressed an interest in creating a non-profit organization for the purposes of fundraising and accepting tax-deductible donations for public art initiatives and projects. A document was distributed for review, and staff recommend members select a name for the organization and continue to discuss next steps. Direction was provided to distribute the document for comment in June for finalization at the July meeting. Inger Hiller recommended that the name be simple and short to help with branding and logo development for public communication.

PAC 2024-023 Public Art Plan Review

Due to the timing in the meeting when members began discussing the review of the Public Art Strategic Plan, it was determined that members would look over the plan on their own throughout June and come to the July meeting prepared with a list of priorities for the remainder of 2024 and 2025.
