SCAM ALERT

Tax season can bring out hackers who steal your identity to receive your refund.

The latest is an email scheme where the emails are designed to trick taxpayers into thinking these are official communications from the IRS or others in the tax industry, including tax software companies. The Phishing schemes can ask taxpayers about a wide range of topics. Emails can seek information related to refunds, filing status, confirming personal information, ordering transcripts and verifying PIN information.

Variations of these scams can be seen via text messages, and the communications are being reported in every section of the country.

What to look for in these scams:

- Taxpayers receive an official-looking email from what appears to be an official source, whether the IRS or someone in the tax industry.
- The underlying messages frequently ask taxpayers to update important information by clicking on a web link.
- The links may be masked to appear to go to official pages, but they can go to a scam page designed to look like the official page.

The IRS urges people not to click on these links but instead send the email to: phishing@irs.gov.

Recent email examples the IRS has seen include subject lines and underlying text referencing:

- Numerous variations about individual's tax refund.
- Update your filing details, which can include references to W-2.
- Confirm your personal information.
- Get my IP Pin.
- Get my E-file Pin.
- Order a transcript.
- Complete your tax return information.

Please also remember:

- Only share your social security number on secure, legitimate sites.
- Shred your documents.
- Lock away any identifying documents.
- Keep your computer's anti-malware and virus programs up-to-date.

DETECTIVE UNIT

Detective Brian Finley successfully completed training in cellphone forensic analysis during the month of February. This new skill will significantly decrease the length of time devices are retained by the Police Department in cases where no criminal activity is found as well as enhance our abilities to collect digital evidence.

VICTIMS ASSISTANCE (VA) UNIT

Jennifer Walker, Executive Director of The Crisis Center, was the presenter for the February 2016 monthly VA team meeting. Advocates from the Parker and Lone Tree Police departments were also in attendance.

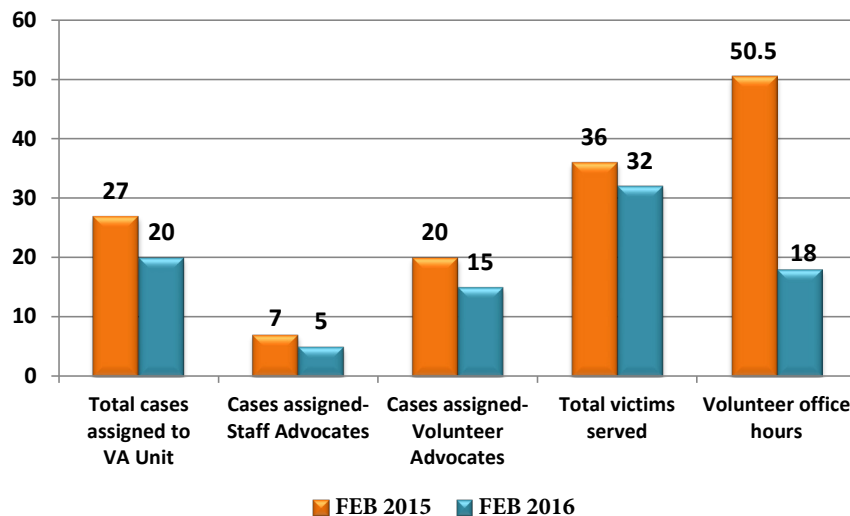

The Crisis Center recently completed a study, which showed only 11% of their clientele are residents of Douglas County. This change in clientele has been the impetus for changing their business model that will include reducing the number of beds that will be available to victims and their families. Jennifer also shared information regarding the new and improved case management system that she will be implementing in the near future - this will be an excellent resource for the victims that they serve.

The Castle Rock Police Department's VA Coordinator will be working with patrol officers throughout the transition.

Vehicle break-in

Chief, I wanted to thank you and your department, in particular Officer Stoneking and his Corporal [Collins]. We had 3-4 cars broken into this morning on our street to include my wife's [work] vehicle... The officers' caring and professional manner was appreciated by all. As always, please let me know if you or your department needs anything.
