Title: A Resolution Approving a Request for Demolition of the Building
Located at 407 Jerry Street

Executive Summary

Located at the northwest corner of Jerry and Fourth Streets (Attachment A), the Olinger Andrews Caldwell Gibson Chapel is considering a future expansion. Their consultants have determined that demolition of the existing structure and constructing an entirely new chapel is more feasible than renovating the existing building. Any structure within the historic downtown area built before 1945 must get a recommendation from the Historic Preservation Board and approval from Town Council prior to issuance of a demolition permit. Built around 1929 with additions following after 1939, the existing structure is not landmarked. On August 21, 2019, the Historic Preservation Board voted 6-0 to recommend to Town Council that they approve the demolition request.

History of Historic Preservation Board Action

Historic Preservation Board: August 21, 2019

The Historic Preservation Board voted 6-0 to recommend to Town Council that they approve the demolition request. Two members of the public spoke in support of the demolition request and in support of the business itself. The Board found that the historic architectural integrity has been lost due to the many renovations to the building over the years and that demolition would not be detrimental to the adjacent properties or the downtown area.

Discussion

History of the Property & Existing Conditions

Pictometry View Looking North

Built around 1929, the current building originally included the Livingston Mortuary, also known as the Livingston Funeral Home. Samuel and Janice Livingston lived upstairs and ran their business downstairs. In 1938, Douglas and Helen Andrews purchased the business and later purchased the property in 1947. Sometime after 1939, the north and south additions were constructed. In 1976, their son, John Andrews, bought and ran the business until he sold it in 1984 to Caldwell Gibson Corporation. Sometime prior to 2008, the detached garage on the property was demolished. It is unknown when the vinyl windows and siding were installed (Attachments B and C). Since there have been several additions and renovations over the years, little of the original building and materials remain obvious. The property is known today as the Olinger Andrews Caldwell Gibson Chapel and is not landmarked.

Proposed Demolition

Prior to designing and submitting formal plans of any new building, the owner has requested the approval to demolish the existing building in its entirety. Any structure within the historic downtown area built before 1945 must get a recommendation from the Historic Preservation Board and approval from Town Council prior to issuance of a demolition permit.

Review and Approval Criteria

Section 15.30.090B of the Town's Municipal Code establishes the following criteria to be used by the Historic Preservation Board and Town Council, along with a cultural resource survey, to review all demolition requests.

1. Is the property currently landmarked and/or would the property be able to achieve landmark status?
2. Is the property void of features of architectural and/or historical significance and/or integrity?
3. Will the effect of demolition or relocation be positive or negative on adjacent properties or the downtown district?
4. Has deterioration of the property progressed to the point where it is not economically feasible to rehabilitate the property?
5. For a demolition request, has moving the building been investigated? Is it a feasible option to demolition?

Staff Analysis

This independent staff analysis takes into account the representations made in the application and attachments submitted to date.

1. Per the updated Cultural Resource Survey (Attachment B), the property is eligible for local landmarking. However, the property is not eligible for National or State landmarking. This is likely because the historical integrity of the building has been compromised by the various additions and material changes over the years.
2. While the property's use has remained the same since 1929, evidence of the original artisan's labor and skills along with the historic materials are no longer intact. The building does not have sufficient integrity to be considered for National or State historic designations.
3. Because the building does not have many distinguishable historic features intact, demolishing the building would not negatively impact adjacent properties or the downtown district. Additionally, because the property would continue to operate as a funeral home/chapel but within a new building, the site's association with historic people, businesses, and heritage will remain.
4. It would not be economically feasible to restore the few historic elements that remain.
5. Because the building does not retain its historic integrity, relocation is not desirable or feasible.

The history of the building has been thoroughly documented through a Colorado Cultural Resource Survey, and staff finds that demolition is the best alternative for the property so that redevelopment can occur.

Historic Preservation Board Recommendation

The Historic Preservation Board voted 6-0 to recommend to Town Council that they approve the demolition request.
