PROJECT OVERVIEW

Public Art Commission Subcommittee members met with staff of the Downtown Alliance to discuss project selection for creating pedestrian-scale art experiences in Downtown Castle Rock. The subcommittee presented several options including: wrapping the bathroom facility at Festival Park and wrapping traffic signal boxes radiating from the park to connect a general story or theme; creating a mural or series of murals; and, promoting a positive message campaign, which could be completed in addition to or as part of either of the project options previously listed. Staff of the Downtown Alliance were excited for the opportunity to assist with any of the projects and all expressed interest in the positive messaging campaign.

NEXT STEPS

It was noted that the subcommittee would reach out to schedule future meetings with Downtown Alliance staff once more project details were solidified.

Jen Perry also provided the Downtown Alliance with the update that the Commission hopes to soon issue a survey to gauge and assess the public's interest and perception of art in Castle Rock. Kevin Tilson of the Downtown Alliance invited the Commission to present the survey at their next board meeting on October 1. Their staff noted they would be more than willing to help distribute the survey and encourage engagement.
